

Did you give your children the gift to be targeted online?

Make sure your child's new mobile device is secure

Did you give your child a new phone, tablet or laptop recently?

If so, it's really important that you make sure it's safe for your child to use. Cybercrime, including online child sexual exploitation, is a real threat - making sure that you install parental controls on devices can help make sure your child is safe online.

It's also essential that you talk to your children about what they're doing online and encourage them not to put themselves at risk.

Security and tracking software are also very important prevention measures against hackers and thieves.

Download our app to get bespoke security information for your device. Get it here: phonesecure.nyp.mobi

For more information about online safety and security visit www.cyberstreetwise.co.uk or www.getsafeonline.org

